

The Connection Between Social Justice, Mental Health and Curriculum in our Classrooms

| | |
|------------------------|---|
| Facilitator(s): | Michele Jones |
| Date: | November 06, 2017 |
| Time: | 9:00 am – 3:30 pm |
| Cost: | $50.00 (includes lunch, which is not prepared in a nut/gluten-free environment) |
| Location: | Edmonton (ERLC Office at Elmwood School) Room 17/18, 16325 - 83 Avenue |
| Session Code: | 18-CR-031 |

Who Should Attend

Grades K-12 Teachers and Administrators

About this Learning Opportunity

This learning opportunity will look at the connections between social justice and our classroom curriculum. Weaving a social justice program into our curriculum means moving it from “one more extra-curricular on our plate”, to a valuable, curriculum based learning activity for our students. Explore the mental health benefits of using social justice issues in our classrooms, schools, and communities. You will spend the afternoon developing your own social justice project with the advantage of input/feedback from others in the room.

This learning opportunity is being provided through funding from Alberta Education.

About the Facilitator(s)

Michele Jones has been an educator for over 20 years and prior to joining Edmonton Regional Learning Consortium, she worked in the areas of teacher and student wellness, both at the district and school levels. As a Health champion since 2008, and a past member of the Black Gold Healthy Schools steering committee, she has a wealth of practical knowledge of implementing wellness routines into everyday life.