About this Learning Opportunity

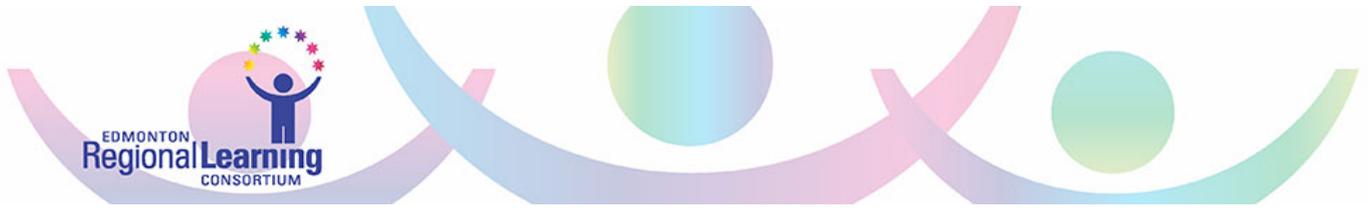

Join us on a multi-day journey that weaves together ceremony, storytelling, art, identity, and learning to build your understanding of indigenous ways of knowing. This journey will be led by elders, indigenous cultural teachers and experienced facilitators who will share histories and issues that impact all communities. These teachings, facilitated in the scenic Palisades Centre in Jasper, Alberta will support teachers in deepening their understanding and knowledge for a different way of knowing in classrooms and school communities.

About the Facilitator(s)

Dorothy Couterielle

Etienna Moostoos-Lafferty was born and raised in Grande Prairie Alberta. Etienna's family is from the Sturgeon Lake Cree Nation in Treaty 8 territory. Etienna has 7 years of teaching experience both on and off-reserve, and also in public and Catholic school systems. Etienna spent 4 years working for an Indigenous perspective school with the Calgary Board of Education where she learned the importance of culture and language in Indigenous education.

Etienna has since moved back to Edmonton has worked provincially as an Indigenous Education consultant helping to develop and implement workshops aimed at promoting reconciliation through teacher education. Etienna has created resources for the ATA and ARPDC that help teachers better understand topics such as Residential Schools, Metis Settlements, Inuit history, Myths and Stereotypes of Indigenous people, progression of the TRC, and treaty relationships.

Today, Etienna is an Indigenous Education Coach for Evergreen Catholic Schools and is completing her masters at the University of Alberta. She is a mother to a 5 year old daughter named Layla and her husband is also a teacher and works as an assistant Principal for Edmonton Public Schools.

Kerri Trombley is an educator with Sturgeon Public School Division. She has served as a teacher, counsellor, inclusive education coordinator and administrator. Her experience at a reserve school has given her a unique perspective into the relationship between educators and families, students and culture and the importance of language. She continues to be a leader in Indigenous education, literacy and trauma-informed practice in public schools as a Reading Specialist, Blanket Exercise facilitator and Neurosequential Model in Education trainer.

This learning opportunity is being subsidized through funding from Alberta Education.
