About the Facilitator(s)

Rick Wormeli is an experienced classroom and building educator who now writes professional articles and education books while training teachers, principals, superintendents, business organizations, school boards, and parents in North America and around the world. Emphasizing up-to-date pedagogy, innovation, and professionalism, Rick's work often focuses on nine topics: assessment/feedback/grading, differentiated instruction, leadership, literacy, motivation, cognitive science/linguistics, teacher-student relationships, racism and creativity. He has achieved many honors in his career, including being in the first group of Nationally Board Certified Teachers in the United States, winning the Outstanding English Teacher of the Nation award from Disney's American Teacher Awards, and being granted the James P. Garvin Award for Teaching Excellence, Service, and Leadership.

Our ERLC three-part series with Rick has finished, but we're still processing questions we didn't know we had, elements about which we're still wondering. Take a moment now, look through your handouts and notes, and join Rick and other participants for a one-hour session in which we revisit topics from the series and get clarification on anything that still confuses us. It's a wide open conversation on principles and practices of assessment and grading, particularly while students are learning at home, differentiated instruction, tiering/scaffolding, descriptive feedback, and how to minimize cheating/copying among students while they work at home. If you're like us, it's the follow-up discussions where the best connections are made in professional development. Register for the session, and mark your calendars today!
