About this Learning Opportunity

Creating conditions for physical distancing and other health measures to keep students safe as they return to school is a challenge that teachers are rising beautifully to! Join this highly interactive session to connect with teachers from around the province about the creative things they're doing to keep students, and themselves, safe as classes resume.

Teachers will have an opportunity to share and learn from one another about the approaches they're taking to classroom safety that are working well. We're in this together! Be a part of this facilitated conversation to imagine together with colleagues as we navigate school re-entry.
